DAY 22 – REJOICING IN THE HARVEST

📖 Scripture

John 4:36
“He who reaps receives wages, and gathers fruit for eternal life.”

🌱 Meditation

Winning souls is an investment with an eternal reward. Every person who comes to Christ is precious fruit that carries eternal value. Unlike earthly achievements that fade with time, the fruit of soul-winning remains forever.

Jesus reminds us that those who participate in the harvest are not working in vain. Every prayer, every act of kindness, every conversation about Christ, and every effort to lead someone to salvation matters.

We may not always see immediate results, but God sees every effort. Our responsibility is to keep sowing the Word, sharing the Gospel, and rejoicing whenever someone comes to Christ.

The harvest is worth the labour. Keep sowing, because the fruit has eternal value.

💭 Reflection

Am I rejoicing in the harvest of souls, or have I become discouraged by the labour?

- Who can I intentionally reach with the Gospel?
- Am I faithful in sowing, even when I cannot immediately see the results?

🙏 Confession

I rejoice in the harvest of souls. I am committed to sharing the Gospel and leading others to Christ. My labour in the Lord is never in vain. Every soul reached is precious, and every effort made for the Kingdom carries eternal value. I remain faithful, joyful, and committed to the harvest. My fruit remains forever, in Jesus' name. Amen.

✍️ Personal Notes

What does this Scripture teach me about the eternal reward of winning souls?

How can I become more intentional about reaching people with the Gospel?

Who is one person I can reach or encourage to follow Christ?

What will help me remain joyful and faithful in the work of the harvest?
